WELL DEFINED LEDGE WITH SILVER VALUES AT SWASTIKA STRIKE

Special to the Bonanza

MANHATTAN, June 24.—If it is not a regular and well defined ledge, it is at least an unusually large ore shoot, and considerable of the ore is easily of a good shipping grade. Such is the opinion of a number of mining men who have visited the recent silver strike at Jett canyon, among whom last Monday was your representative.

The strike was made in the early part of May and while this is the first mention of it in a newspaper it has been talked of considerably locally ever since it became known, which was a week ago today.

The discoverers are Indians, the particular one having the honor of making the find is Tom Fisherman. He is a prospector who the other Indians say "isn't good for anything else." They allege that he should have the credit for the discovery of several of the great camps of southern Nevada, among which they frequently mention Goldfield.

The scene of the Jett canyon discovery is just at the north of the mouth of the canyon of that name, across Smoky valley, and due west of Round Mountain. It is eight miles from the latter place. It is close to the southern end of the string of ranches in Smoky valley, being two miles north of the Mrs. Millett's ranch at the mouth of Pablo canyon and about the same distance southwest of the James Woods cattle ranch.

It is the most conspicuous spot possible to imagine and the only wonder of every one seeing it, is that it was not discovered 50 years ago. Not only is this a matter of surprise on account of the prominent position of the strike itself, but of the vast amount of high-grade silver ore scattered thereabouts in the form of float. It is on the valley side of a very jagged saw-tooth peak—more properly, a series of them.

Jim Farrington, a half-breed Indian, is the spokesman for the congregate tribe and he can talk mines and minerals as well as anybody, for he is an educated man. He thinks the ledge lies along the fault plane and that the showing in the discovery is but a shoot. He has had no assays, but in most of the material that is unnecessary. It is blotted and specked over with sulphides and native silver, with occasional bromide markings.

In nearly every way it greatly resembles Tonopah ore.

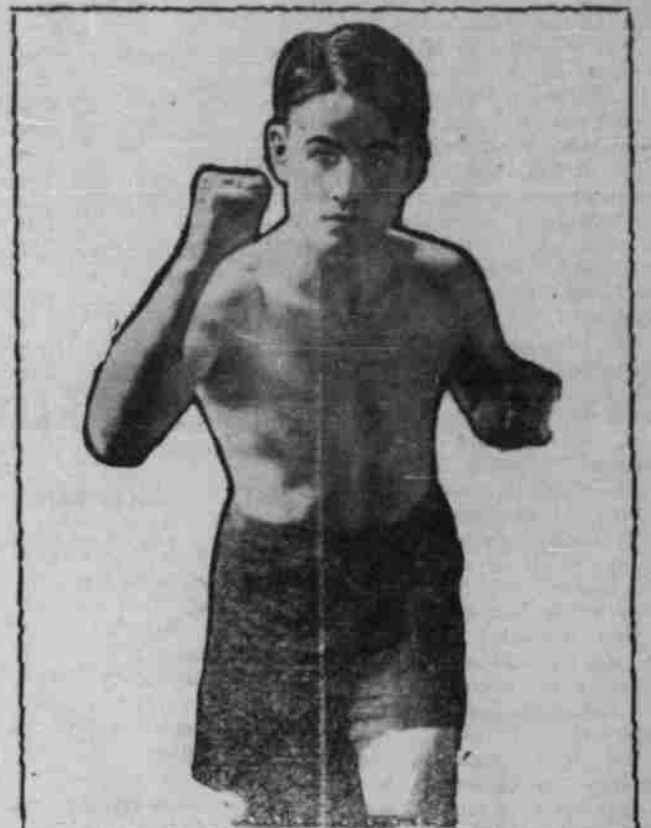

The Indians have taken out and corded on several tons of ore in doing their location work. Farrington says that if they do not sell their group very soon they will collect their horses and wagons together and commence freight-ing it to Millers. They have little if any money, but plenty of horses, wagons and men. They expect to make a shipment of ten tons that will average $200.

Various parties have tried to get the property on bonds but the Indians want $60,000, with $5,000 cash, a payment each month and no ore removed until the purchase price is paid in full. Senator Wingfield's field man, F. M. Simpson, accompanied by Harry Stinner, was one of the first on the ground. J. R. Davis, of Loftus and Davis, and John G. Kirchen, representing Schwab's millions, have also been on the ground. None have taken to the $5,000 cash proposition thus far.

A half dozen Indian tents constitute a village on the fine creek at the foot of the mountain. They are there in force, women, dogs, chickens, ponies and all their paraphernalia. They are kind and generous, to a fault but whites from Round Mountain are plying them with whisky and keeping several of them drunk, in the desperate hope of getting options on the discovery.

The Indians have staked six claims, so they aver. In the six there are seven owners. They deny vehemently any intention of "hogging" the country. Other stampedeers, however, have staked most

BOTH FIGHTERS TO COMMENCE TRAINING

WILLIE CANOLE, Clever Lightweight, Who Will Meet Harry Dell on July 4th

Willie Canole, the San Francisco lightweight boxer, arrived in Tonopah yesterday morning, and tomorrow will start training for his coming contest with Harry Dell that is to be held at Recreation park on July 4. Canole is one of the lightest lightweight boxers on the coast and his late record shows that he will prove a dangerous contender for the honors in the approaching match.

Both Canole and Dell will train in the Volunteer Fireman's gymnasium. Canole will train from 3 to 4 o'clock each afternoon, while Dell will occupy the gym from 2 to 3 o'clock. Dell has already started training. Both men are in excellent condition and their training will be for the purpose of becoming acclimated.

Canole's recent boxing record is of the loose claims around there for a mile or two.

Farrington says another discovery richer than theirs and almost as big, has been made at a point about three-fourths of a mile south in a canyon on the breaks of the Toiyabes. This discoverer was away and the spot could not be found. Farrington showed rock from it, the character being lead carbonates, rich in silver. Mr. Wilson, a lessee of Mrs. Millett's ranch, has a similar showing on the course of the same or a closely parallel lead.
